Headline: Comview Takes Home LISA Award for 2006

Huntington, NY---May 2, 2006---Comview Corporation, a leading telecommunications usage management company, won the prestigious Long Island Software Award (LISA) for the Best software created on Long Island in 2005.

LISA Award, sponsored by Long Island Software & Technology Network has been doing so for 10 years to "Showcase the strength and diversity of Long Island's software industry. By recognizing excellence in a wide range of software products, the LISA seek to stimulate creative interaction among those engaged in software development and application on Long Island, and to give these activities a higher recognition."

Comview won this award for its new "Wireless Management System" which provides substantial cost reduction and control of Wireless Expenses. Users access all usage data via the Comview web site which combines all carriers' data into a single integrated view. Department managers log into the system to view usage for their employees. Our automated rate plan optimization recommends the lowest possible cost plan(s) for all users saving substantial dollars each month.

To date, Comview is the only supplier that combines its Web Based Call Accounting Outsourcing service with its new Wireless Management Service to create a single cohesive tool for managing all telecommunications usage expenses.
