Bob Nielsen, Vice President Operations for Comview Corporation, took home honors as one of corporate Long Island's Top Twenty Techies (T3). The Long Island Software & Technology Network (LISTnet) initiated Nielsen into the T3 Class of 2007.

Huntington Station, NY – Comview Corporation, a leading provider of telecom cost management services, proudly announces that Bob Nielsen, its Vice President of Operations, was honored by LISTnet (<http://www.listnet.org/>) as a recipient of the prestigious 2007 Twenty Top Techies (T3) award at a recent presentation ceremony. The award recognizes up and coming techies who work behind the scenes to use technology effectively to contribute to their company's growth. The LISTnet organization promotes Long Island as one of the national centers of excellence for software and technology solutions.

Nielsen, who is responsible for overseeing Comview's operations, new customer implementation and on-going customer service, has played a lead role in the company's growth. In this role, Nielsen demonstrates both his technical and management expertise. He was responsible for Comview's cutover to a new data center – taking an outsourced operation and bringing it "in-house". In addition to running operations, he is always on the phone with customers solving their complex technical issues and is responsible for keeping Comview's back end of over 20 servers going.

John Perri, President of Comview Corporation stated, "We are pleased that a member of our company has been recognized by his colleagues in the technology community. Bob is an important "go to" guy for all data analysis issues that no one else can fix. His hands-on approach gets the job done." When interviewed about the award, Bob Nielsen said, "It is such a tribute being chosen by LISTNet as one of twenty top techies, especially when you consider the remarkable group of technology professionals on Long Island."
